

Las Vegas Public Speakers Bureau Presents...

Paul Bodner, an accomplished motivational speaker, is the author of "Teaching with Love, Laughter & Lemonade", a book filled with award winning stories written by students about teachers who have positively changed the lives of their students! He is also an accomplished businessman, writer, and award winning actor and producer.

He has worked with young people for more than 20 years, initially as a teacher, then adolescent group worker, then Psychiatric Hospital Administrator, leading to his own Executive Search Company, specializing in placing educators and mental health providers in positions throughout the USA.

His community activities include serving as the Founding President of the Las Vegas CineVegas International Film Festival, and Past President of the Entertainment Development Corporation of Las Vegas. He has been a marketing lecturer at the University of LaVerne, California, a humorist and author of a published book, "A Daddy's World," leading to hosting and producing a cable television show of the same name.

Paul's mission is to educate, inspire, and motivate individuals that want to improve their lives. He believes that life should be filled with love and laughter, with a balanced commitment of spending time with family while growing a successful career.

Through humor and energy, Paul will keep audiences delightfully entertained as they learn and become inspired to succeed in reaching their goals, while they appreciate the joy of everyday life.

Intended Audiences: He's the perfect speaker choice for teachers, school administrators, youth leadership programs or groups that just need a "lemonade lift."

Lemonade Series signature speeches include stories about one person impacting a life, forever.

To book Paul, please call Vicki Dooling at 702-808-2017.
